live chat from 6.30

18:11 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

The performance will begin at 7.20pm tonight.

18:20 20/03/2010

Jen

Looking forward to the webcast - saw The Corner Shop play and it was brilliant!

18:31 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hello and welcome to the Behna webcast live chat. I am pleased to be your host this evening, coming to you live from Goldthorn Park, Wolverhampton, in the UK.

18:33 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Jen! Thanks for logging in. Are you viewing from Wolverhampton? Do you have anyone joining you for the viewing?

18:34 20/03/2010

RJ

Hi its 6.33pm and I can hear any live chat. Am I doing something wrong?

18:34 20/03/2010

Benjamin

Hi Folks, I'm tuning in from my flu bed in Birmingham - Looking forward to the show. Say hi to the Trilby crew for me.

18:35 20/03/2010

Sorry I meant I CANNOT hear any live chat

18:35 20/03/2010

Greg Marshall

just signing in for the show

18:35 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi RJ, the live chat is just on screen, not on audio.

18:35 20/03/2010

Sak

Hi Deesho Auntie. Thanks for inviting us!

18:36 20/03/2010

RJ

OK Teek

18:36 20/03/2010

Suze Carter

V. excited. Any idea what time the performance ends though? Seeing tonight as a bit of an experiment - Can i get the family which includes 3 year old and 1 year old to watch theatre - or better still leave me in peace to watch it all! Clashes with bedtime

18:37 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Welcome everybody! If you haven't yet logged on, please let us know that you're watching, who you're with and where you're viewing from.

18:38 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Suze, the performance finishes at 8.45pm followed by an hour of live chat.

18:40 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Benjamin, wishing you better!

18:41 20/03/2010

Suki

hi, do i have to do anything to access the live cast?

18:41 20/03/2010

steve

I don't know about anyone else, but I'm getting excited about this

18:42 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Suki! No, you're chatting already and the performance will appear on the screen.

18:43 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

It is VERY exciting, particularly on such a grey, drizzly evening.

18:46 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

It's good to be able to sit in the warm and to take part in such an unusual experience. The tension and excitement is really building here with the actors getting ready; the technicians hard at work making sure that you have a wonderful, trouble free vie

18:47 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Other than Benjamin tucked up in bed, is anyone else tucked up in the warm...has anyone gathered friends together for a Behna party.

18:47 20/03/2010

steve

Have you been in the house for a few days getting ready?

18:41 20/03/2010

steve

I don't know about anyone else, but I'm getting excited about this

Have you been in the house for a few days getting ready?

48 20/03/2010

Suki

thats right, i really wanted to see this play but very difficult to fit in dates, so this is ideal.....thanx for this opportunity

48 20/03/2010

Suze Carter

Has this type of live theatre webcast been done before? It's such an unusual and innovative idea - can't wait to see what kind of viewing experience it is - can it replace live theatre?

48 20/03/2010

Jen

Hi Deesho! We're in Coventry and have just finished munching some onion bahjis to get in the mood for the performance!

48 20/03/2010

Tune

Hello Deesho aunty!

48 20/03/2010

Lindz

I am at home and watching it! Chatting with friends on msn too!

50 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

We've been preparing in the house since 10am but obviously we've been preparing for the event for some time!

50 20/03/2010

Kate C

Hello - very exciting. I'm in Nottingham. Am I the most distant viewer?

50 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hey Jen, Glad you've got the bahjis out!

51 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hello Tune and Lindz! Welcome.

51 20/03/2010

Abhi

Hello from Sheffield! Cant wait anymore!

52 20/03/2010

Andrew

In a very busy pub in moseley (free wi-fi) I have my earphones though!

52 20/03/2010

Lindz

Thanking you. My Uni friends are watching it tonight too. Looking forward to an interesting experience!

52 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Abhi! You'll have to wait a little longer! We'll give you something to look at soon.

53 20/03/2010

Sak

We're in Brum and well be watching as a family, two adults and two kids (boy 13, girl 8). Also know the grandparents are tuning in from Wolverhampton. It's getting warm in here now, what fun.

53 20/03/2010

Steve

Hello from wolverhampton - this is great, it's like the eurovision song contest - without the songs of course

53 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Suze, I've never heard of anything like this webcast taking place before. Has anyone else?

54 20/03/2010

Bronia

Watching from London with Ilona and Felix

55 20/03/2010

Claire

Hi guys! This is fun huh? like a pre-show drink in the bar but from the comfort of your own home

55 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Bronia! Glad you've made it. Janet sends her love!

55 20/03/2010

Jen

I know National Theatre broadcasts things to cinema screens sometimes. Not sure if anyone else does this live over the net - especially for free!

56 20/03/2010

Jyoti

Hi Bobby, Deesho Auntie

54 20/03/2010

56 20/03/2010

Jyoti

Hi Bobby,
waiting for the performance to start, best of luck

56 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Sak, glad we've got the whole family viewing!

57 20/03/2010

Bronia

Hoping this works - I'm not v good with technology!

58 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

This is an experiment for all parties involved. Cosy viewing and a 'pre-show drinks' feel sounds like positive feedback so far..!

58 20/03/2010

frances

Ruth

58 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Do be sure to let us know what you think of the whole experience after the show. We've got a very short evaluation you can fill in then.

58 20/03/2010

deveena

hi guys, just wondering what everyone else can see on their screen, not sure whether mines working

59 20/03/2010

Nicku

Watching at home in Wolverhampton with one eye on this page and the other eye on the footy! This is a great concept as the performance is in a confined space and we wouldn't have all fitted in! I don't think it could replace theatre but it would certainly

59 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Jyoti, really pleased your could join us. Bobby sends his best!

19:00 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Frances and Ruth! Good to see you're viewing.

19:00 20/03/2010

Jen

Hi Deveena - can just see a black square with the name of the show and details about times so far. Auntie has promised more soon...

19:00 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Deveena, you should be able to see the black screen with white welcome message on it.

19:01 20/03/2010

lucky ooooooo its coming on

19:01 20/03/2010

frances

yes Ruth and I are settling down - just about to serve our curry.

19:01 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hey Nicku...hope the footie finishes soon...and that we're doing alright! No time to look at the score.

Don't go full screen yet or you'll miss out on more chat! You should be able to watch the performance full screen though. Don't forget to come back to chat though.

19:17 20/03/2010

Heather

Hi Frances :)

19:17 20/03/2010

Kate C

Hello Asif! How's your grass roots pay going?

19:17 20/03/2010

Greg Marshall

Was that almost the start or just a break in the music?

19:18 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hi Pam, Thanks for spreading the word.

19:20 20/03/2010

Suze Carter

who is gonna be the final chat before it starts - is it me????

19:21 20/03/2010

Deepa (DRN Djs)

is this going to be indian timing? i.e will it start at 19:20 or 20:20?

19:21 20/03/2010

Lorna

Hi, Lorna from Wednesbury. Am looking forward to the show.

19:21 20/03/2010

jalebbee

chack de!! tune is bad, just right for saturday night

19:21 20/03/2010

its not the echo they are speaking punjabi..lol

19:41 20/03/2010
Jason
What is wrong with the use of chat during the show? It is not affecting the performance..

19:42 20/03/2010
lucky
well a civilised audience is known not to chat whilst the performnce....lol

19:43 20/03/2010

lucky

how long is this again?

19:43 20/03/2010

Mohan

Do something about the sound-I can hardly hear the dialogue.

19:45 20/03/2010

Jason

A civilised audience? Hardly a civilised audience, your kind sir.

19:46 20/03/2010

Ladooo

baly says the guy looks like suki...

19:48 20/03/2010

did the bottle of beer give it away. Or was it the grey hairs.

19:49 20/03/2010

Ladooo

LOL

19:49 20/03/2010

Mohan

Jason, you are right.If we can't hear the actors-the audience can chat on line,and its not disturbing anyone.

19:50 20/03/2010

pinky

can you do something about the sound

19:50 20/03/2010

Splinter

Shaleen Hudda is brilliant. Strong presence, depth, and range. Really intelligent and shining performance.

I'm hearing fine and I'm on a 6 year old laptop... try the volume icon - worked for me

20:11 20/03/2010

Suze

I'm still hear, like many of you, to support the show and people in it, or behind it...what a shame about the sound. I'm sure this is brilliant live. I actually am enjoying the experience of watching and chatting at the same. this is different theatrical

20:13 20/03/2010

agree, this is exciting and new for us. I'm sure they'll sort out sound next time (not that bad really).

We put the sound through our stereo, and all sounded fine. Enjoyable, lots of fun. Like being a fly on the wall in a real kitchen!

20:51 20/03/2010

Jess

Hello from galicia! enjoyed the experience - difficulties with sound over here too but then, we are very far away!

20:51 20/03/2010

Greg Marshall

Well done, great concept, we are really supportive of the idea

20:51 20/03/2010

well done to everyone. It was a first. Ruth and I struggled on the sound at times but hey we were just on the laptop speakers.

20:51 20/03/2010

michelle

Well done! Powerful scripts and performances by all! It translated very well to live webcast..though nothing beats live theatre! Script writers/actors for tv soaps could learn alot from this!

20:51 20/03/2010

pinky

No i have a stereo system attached to desktop computer. Sound is not a problem. Oh wished I had thought of headphones and the rest of the family gave up after not being able to hear. full screen was also not too good had to watch it on the small link that

20:53 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

We will shortly be joined by members of the cast and the director who will take your questions.

20:53 20/03/2010

Good camera angles. Nice live cutting between cameras. Kept it feeling dynamic. Enough moaning about the sound people! :)

20:53 20/03/2010

Suze

What i got to hear/see was beautifully acted. I'd love to see it again with sound and no interruptions (i.e. kids crying, breaking lamps, Hoover going - but that's just my bad!) Youtube?

20:54 20/03/2010

pinky

Apart from the technical problems, great concept and would love to watch more dramas this way. Next time i will have friends around and have a party around the show

20:54 20/03/2010

pally

That was such a great play, great night in, quality of the picture was poor at times but the play's content outweighed that! Certainly needs to be repeated in the future with other plays.

20:54 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

In the meantime, what did people feel about chat during the show? We initially thought that it might be too distracting but clearly some of you thought that it added to the experience. What are your views?

20:55 20/03/2010

Catherine

Chat during the show is fine. Added value in spontaneous feedback

20:55 20/03/2010

sue from cornwall

thanks to pete for suggesting headphones - powerful and intimate thanks. Lovely to know that friends all over the place are sharing the experience

20:56 20/03/2010

Was good as we got an insight into what other people thought about it, and gave solutions to technical problems.

20:56 20/03/2010

Suze

Personally when i went full screen the image was distorted and poor quality so went back to small view - chat actually gave it a different dimension. fun

20:56 20/03/2010

frances

we tuned in to the chat now and then and didn't find it distracting. Loved the fact that other people were tuned in from far and wide

20:56 20/03/2010

agree that chat should be allowed as its silent (and can be ignored if you switch to full screen mode if you find it distracting). Look forward to your next webcast.

20:57 20/03/2010

Ladoo

Will it be shown again via web?

20:57 20/03/2010

A fresh concept in entertainment executed very well, considering the difficulty of getting technology to work for everyone. A moving script and certainly touching the reality of many Indian family dramas in UK. The creative imagination gone into this proj

20:57 20/03/2010

pinky

no did not add to the experience. Better to watch it on full screen (if this gets sorted next time poor quality and made lip reading more difficult). chat distracted from the full effect of the drama

20:58 20/03/2010

tune

i enjoyed the chat it def added to my experience

20:58 20/03/2010

Such a fascinating new way to access theatre. Felt really radical - taking the power way from mainstream media to create new ways of experiencing drama. It definitely made a difference that we were invited into someone's home. Actually I would have liked isn't the poor quality due to low screen resolution?

20:59 20/03/2010

Ladoo

Saw the live performance, the webcast was exactly the same.

20:59 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

It is lovely to have such instant and varied feedback. Please keep it coming!

21:00 20/03/2010

Tim

Great idea and great show. Chat OK - you can expand the screen or reduce it, so take it or leave it. Well done to everyone, Sandy included - I told you it would be great!

21:00 20/03/2010

Kate

Yes I assumed the low res was due to my pay as you mobile broadband connection.

21:01 20/03/2010

Greg Marshall

Response to experience Greg and Jimm: very different from sitting in a theatre, we felt drawn to be closer to the actors. Cheers to the BCT guys, pass on our congrats to the cast, including Steve's cameo.

21:02 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

The viewing quality was affected by the bandwidth. Also by the decision to not put the webcast out at too high a resolution as this might prevent those with less up-to-the-minute technology from being able to view.

21:03 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Ladoo: I'm afraid that we are not now able to broadcast the show so you won't be able to watch it later. Apologies for this.

I think the quality was ver good compared to other live streaming theatre events I have seen.

21:04 20/03/2010

Claire

Greg and Jimm - you buddied up!! really great to experience theatre in a new way. Loved the excitement and buzz of the build on this page, like i said earlier it was comparable to pre-show drinks. I think the quality was excellent, much better than I had

21:05 20/03/2010

Asif Masud

Behna is a heartfelt narrative penned from the heart - well done Sonia Likhari! The performances were all rooted, grounded, and great - the pain and joy displayed with spirit and soul. Well done all - especially Hema Mangoo, Shahleen Hudda, Sandeep Garcha

21:07 20/03/2010

Gill

A great new way to view drama and the chat was a plus. Gave a feeling of being in an involved audience which you miss when lone viewing

21:07 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I'm now joined by Simon Nagra who played Jag. What would you like to ask him?

21:08 20/03/2010

Steve

You wouldn't believe the kitchen now - it's like a whirlwind has hit it - considering how little technology you could see on screen the derig looks wild

21:08 20/03/2010

Sak

This story is so familiar, I have two elder sisters who, after forty odd years, still enjoy a good joust. Enjoyed it thoroughly. Such a brave thing to do. Kids began fidgeting about half way through so missed some of the action. A normal day. Big thanks.

21:08 20/03/2010

Pete from Cornwall

Great performances. Maybe multi radio mics. would help the sound? Look forward to the next one!

21:10 20/03/2010

Hi Simon, Ruth wants to know how it feels performing in someones actual home

21:10 20/03/2010

Asif Masud

IS THERE A LIVE POST-SHOW WEBCAST?

21:11 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

No post-show webcast, I'm afraid. Maybe next time?

21:12 20/03/2010

daffodil

that would be a good idea then it would feel like were at the after show party

21:13 20/03/2010

frances

Hi Pete from Cornwall, glad you managed to tune in 21:13 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I have Hema here who played Simi. She describes the experience of performing in someone's home as: amazing, intimate and unique.

21:13 20/03/2010

Asif Masud

Oh, not to worry. Thanks for this. Pass on my regards and congrats to Hema!! x x:)

21:14 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Simon says that it's much more immediate.

21:14 20/03/2010

Sak

Loved your performance Simon, difficult to make such a character believable at times, I think you bought depth to the villainous Jag.

21:15 20/03/2010

Claire

how was it to play to such a small live audience - did this affect the performances? and where you aware of the extended audience watching at home?

21:15 20/03/2010

frances

Thanks Hemma. Did it make a difference knowing that the show tonight was on the live web cast?

21:18 20/03/2010

Tam

will there be more shows around the country?

We've only just received delivery of our take away. Could you please go again from the top?

21:19 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Thanks Steve! ;)

21:19 20/03/2010

Steve

TThis is Shaleen (Dal)! Was it different? Not really, we were aware of the cameras but it was still for the audience in front of us...

21:20 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

There is a week of performances in Selly Oak still to run...unfortunately, the whole run has sold out.

21:20 20/03/2010

Benjamin

how big was the in house audience tonight?

21:21 20/03/2010

Steve

Shaleen still... You see the cameras but it just makes it more exciting! We didn't want to start "acting for telly" so we had to stay true to the production! :)

21:21 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I have with me, Sandeep who played the mother of the family.

21:23 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Sandeep says that once you are on site and performing, 'you forget about the audience and the kitchen becomes ours'. You just have a chat with 'your' family.

21:23 20/03/2010

Steve

Just letting you know (Hema here) that there are odd tickets coming available - there are a couple for Saturday matinee at 2.30pm and you could also try on the day for returns! x

21:23 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

'You don't perform TO an audience that small so you don't perform to cameras.'

21:25 20/03/2010

Steve T

You've used several different kitchens over the run. Any stories about how you've had to adapt?

21:25 20/03/2010

frances

Hello Sandeep, Ruth here, it really did feel like it was your kitchen and we were only aware of the live audience when we heard them laugh. Well done, great show

21:27 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I have Shaleen with me who played Dal. She says that it's been the exciting part of the process! Each new house keeps you on your toes! Some are mirror images of what we're use to and others have cookers and sinks right next to each other! It's tough

21:28 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I have the director with me. Has anyone got any questions for her?

21:29 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Shaleen continues...it's tough but we're true to what we're saying so really the new kitchens are the fun part!

21:30 20/03/2010

frances

Hello, Ruth here. How has it been directing a play to be performed in such a small space and with the audience so close?

21:31 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Janet, the director says, 'It's just like directing anything. You just go for the truth of the story. Rehearsing in a real kitchen helped.'

21:31 20/03/2010

Steve T

For Janet - the Director - what on earth were you thinking when you conceived this???

21:32 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

'Having the audience so close makes it exciting?'

21:33 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Janet responds: it was a traditional kitchen sink drama so where best to place it than in a kitchen.

21:33 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Janet - It's exciting to be creative with theatrical form.

21:35 20/03/2010

Faiza

Sadly we were unable to catch the play and understand it during the performance - the sound quality was very bad... we were hoping to catch it later on - would that be possible? I feel we missed out....

21:35 20/03/2010

frances

Ruth continues ..was it harder for the actors being that close to the audience

21:37 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

I'm afraid that we are unable to broadcast at a later date. Apologies. The director assures us that we do

I'm afraid that we are unable to broadcast at a later date. Apologies. The director assures us that we do hope to bring the play back in the future. All I can suggest is that you keep an eye on our websites or join our mailing lists for future events.

21:37 20/03/2010

Steve

Shaleen here - it was different having the audience so close - and having them well lit! However, other than remember not to project too loud - you just have to be natural and honest to the story...

21:38 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

It may also be worth checking the rep website or checking for returns at next week's performances.

21:38 20/03/2010

frances

Did people talk to you much after the performance about the themes in the play

21:39 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Lots of female audience members could really identify with the characters.

21:40 20/03/2010

Sak.

Think 'The Corner Shop' would look great delivered this way. Sorry, I know it's a little early to be going there;)

21:41 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Could I please make a request that anyone still logged in completes the online evaluation form? The link's at the bottom of the page.

21:42 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

We'll be saying goodnight in 3 minutes.

21:42 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

Hey Sak: The Corner Shop as a webcast would be amazing but we'll have to see about the logistics!

21:47 20/03/2010

Steve T

Great production - ground breaking. Means we can now 'tour' public performances literally anywhere - doctors surgeries, school classrooms, football terraces even corner shops!!!

21:47 20/03/2010

Deesho Auntie

This is Deesho Auntie wishing you goodnight and a safe journey home...oh, but you're already home. Hoorah! Goodnight and many thanks from us all! x

Great Show does this mean that it corner shop is happening again :)
